County deluged with 26 inches of rain

Rivers, bayous, canals and ditches just could not handle some 26 1/2 plus inches of rainfall Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Water was rising fast, even into homes on pilings in the Jourdan River Shores area and along the river, Gloria Tartavouille, Hancock County Sheriff's Office Telecommunications coordinator said.

At 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Tartavouille said, "I have five dispatchers working and we cannot keep up with the telephone calls."

"People are now beginning to panic as the waters continue to rise," Tartavouille said.

On Wednesday morning, Hancock County Fire Marshall Richard Pate, who was coordinating rescue efforts from the Jourdan River bridge on Hancock County School Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois announced that all Hancock County Schools will be closed today.

Bay-Waveland School Superintendent Paul Tisdale announced all Bay-Waveland Schools will be open.

Highway 603 by Jourdan River Estates, was asking rescue personnel to urge persons still in the homes of the flooded subdivision to come out while the waters were not too treacherous.

Hancock County Sheriff's deputies, Mississippi State Troopers, Bureau of Marine Resources officers, Wildlife & Fisheries officers, Auxiliary Deputies, Volunteer Firefighters and volunteers with boats, were all lending a hand in the rescue effort.

Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert
Boudin on Wednesday reported the official rainfall for Monday night through Wednesday morning in the county was 26 1/2 inches.

The normal yearly rainfall for the area is about 60-65 inches.

Persons rescued went to shelters and some to relative's homes.

Tartavouille said the shelters opened were Annunciation School, Hancock North Central Elementary, Vo-Tech, and Kids Carousel, on Highway 43. volunteered by owners.

Late Wednesday afternoon a mother and three children who fell from horses were rescued, Tartavouille said.

The foursome were riding two horses off Cypress Drive in the Flatop Community. "They were on the horses in water over the horses' mouth and the riders fell off and almost drowned," Tartavouille stated.

Longtime Hancock County Board of Supervisor A.A. (Dolph) Kellar reported in his 32 years of residence on High-

The Tiny "Rosebud"
God Picked to Bloom
In Heaven
 By Helen Steiner Rice

The Master Gardener from Heaven Above
 Planted a seed in the Garden of Love
 And from it there grew a rose-bud small
 That never had time to open at all,
 For God in His perfect and all-wise way

Chose this rose for His Heavenly Bouquet
 And great was the joy of this tiny rose
 To be the one our Father chose
 To leave earth's garden for
 One on high
 Where roses bloom always
 And never die
 So, while you can't see your precious rose bloom,
 You know The Great Gardener from the "Upper Room"

Is watching and tending this wee rose with care
 Tenderly touching each petal
 so fair
 So think of darling with the angels above Secure and contented and surrounded by love,
 And remember God blessed and enriched your lives, too,
 For in dying your darling,
 Brought Heaven Close to You!

Brianna, we love and miss you so. Hope you had a Happy Birthday with your Family in Heaven. You will never be forgotten.

Port Bienville, Stennis International apply to become free trade zones

BY RICHARD MEEK

Established businesses will get a much-needed boost when the Port and Harbor Commission will add a lucrative recruiting tool when Port Bienville Industrial Park and Stennis International Airport become part of a Free Trade Zone, according to P&H Executive Director Hal Walters.

Walters said the P&H is applying for membership in the Gulfport/Biloxi Foreign Trade Zone Corporation #92. Once accepted, which Walters said would take about a year, the non-profit organization will become known as the Mississippi Gulf Coast Foreign Trade Zone.

The organization is currently comprised of Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport, the Mississippi State Port Authority at Gulfport, and the Harrison County Development Commission.

Jackson County is also considering joining the organization, but recent turmoil in its Port Authority has left its possible membership in doubt, Walters said.

He said recognition of Port Bienville and the airport as free trade zones is a "tremendous benefit" to those companies conducting business internationally. Additionally, he called the trade zone a "major draw for us to attract businesses with international trade and help create jobs."

Walters said a free trade zone is "out of the boundaries of the United States" and that businesses located in such a zone "don't have to pay a duty" on international business. If a company imports products and sells them in the domestic market, or a manufacturer imports parts and sells the end product domestically, the company pays only a reduced duty.

Walters said no quotas apply, and the companies are exempt from property taxes.

He said Ingalls Shipyards in Pascagoula recently reported a savings of $1 million in the construction of one ship because the site was designated as a sub-zone of the free trade zone.

In a poll conducted by P&H officials, Walters said eight of the 12 companies located in Port Bienville currently have international customers. Three of six businesses at Stennis are involved in international trade.

The agreement calls for the Port and Harbor Commission to invest $30,000 in the corporation, spread over six equal payments of $5,000. The first payment is not due until the application process is complete, Walters said.

The P&H will also seat three members on the Zone Corporation board.

Once completed, businesses in Port Bienville and at Stennis will have the "opportunity to become activated," according to Walters.

He said businesses are required to pay a yet-to-be determined annual fee, which will help pay for the administration of the free trade zone.

Walters said the county cannot establish a free trade zone on its own because neither Port Bienville or the airport are designated as ports of entries. However, once the agreement goes into effect, both sites are designated as such.

Even after being established as ports of entries, Walters said the cost for establishing a trade zone is $75-100,000 and takes over two years.

He said the closed Army ammo plant at Stennis Space Center may also be included, but that has yet to be decided.

At its monthly meeting Monday, the P&H:

- Agreed to sell its locomotive at Port Bienville to Locomotive Specialist for $10,200. It was the only bid received.

The commission has spent $14,000 in parts to maintain the locomotive in the last eight months. Leased locomotives are currently being used at Port Bienville.

- Awarded lawn services to Moran Hauling for a bid of $6,900 for maintain Port Bienville. Stennis Airport Director Bill Stovall said the grassy areas at the airport is being maintained for the first time by airport personnel.

- Walters said the prospect activity has greatly increased. He said representatives from two major companies inquired in person about P&H facilities Monday morning and another called.

He said at least five companies are "actively" considering locating in Hancock County.

Leash law survives final snag; gains board approval

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County Board of Supervisors approved a leash law Monday for the unincorporated area south of Interstate 10.

The measure, which was backed by scores of vocal proponents, becomes effective in mid-June.

While backing for the bill was substantial, the measure hit a snag during the supervisors' final consideration of its details Tuesday. Supervisor Alton A. Kellar balked at a provision that he said would require all dogs and cats in the county's entire unincorporated area to be vaccinated against rabies.

That provision would include the area north of the interstate, said Kellar, as he insisted no such rule should be in effect.

Board attorney Gerald Gex said he'd included the provision because it's state law. After he read the state rabies law aloud, other members of the board agreed that the section should stay in the bill.

And supervisors agreed that the provision is a good one, because it guards against the spread of rabies. Supervisor Robert Peterson noted the painful nature of rabies treatments for children who are bitten by stray animals.

But Kellar voted against the new law, saying he backs a leash law for area south of I-10, but cannot endorse a requirement that all dogs and cats be vaccinated.

Other supervisors then agreed to strike the provision from the county law, saying it's redundant to repeat a state law in a county law. At that point, Kellar switched his vote, and the measure passed the board unanimously.

Although county officials struck several references to required vaccinations from the new county law, the local measure still requires vaccinations for all dogs and cats south of the interstate.

The measure makes it illegal to own or keep a dog or cat south of the interstate without obtaining a "dog tag and evidence of inoculation." It also requires dogs and cats to wear metal tags furnished by the veterinarian inoculating the animal.

The main point of the measure is its ban on free-running dogs and cats -- such animals are to be picked up by authorities and held for five days. If not retrieved by the owner within five days, the animal is to be destroyed.

Hunting dogs with collars which are found running at large are subject to seizure by the animal control warden, but there won't be a penalty assessed against the owner.

Otherwise, convictions for violating the law are covered by a fine of up to $25 per offense, and up to one day in jail.

The provisions are similar to ordinances in effect in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is hard to believe that Hancock County suffered so much flood damage from the Monday and Tuesday night rains.

We received some 26 1/2 inches of rain in the county on Monday and Tuesday night.

I have never seen so many homes under water due to a rain storm as I did on Tuesday Morning along Highway 43.

I spoke to longtime Hancock County Supervisor Dolph Kellar, who told me that he had lived on Highway 43 for 32 years, since it was constructed by NASA. He said he had never seen water even over the Highway, much less it being several feet in many sections.

I viewed the washout, or would you call it wash under, which happened on Highway 43 near Hickory Creek. I could stand under the highway because of the depth of the washout.

The pressure of the water cut a hole all the way to the other side of the highway.

Many of the bridges were swaying because of the force of the water washing through.

On the Wolf Creek Road, the water was over the railings of one of the bridges, as it left trees across the rails.

It was a shame to see the homes under water, some were old, while many were of recent brick construction on Highway 43.

Tuesday night's thunderstorms left more water than I have ever seen in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area.

The water in my neighborhood was the highest I have ever seen and I have lived there over 30 years.

Water over Highway 603 at the Jourdan River Bridge, it was the highest anyone I spoke to had ever seen.

Homes had water in them up on stilts, as the saying goes.

We sure had our share of bad weather this week, almost half of our annual average of rainfall.

Thus far in Hancock County I have not heard of any injuries because of the severe thunderstorms and this is very good.

Reports indicate the City of Picayune also suffered severe water damages too, as well as Slidell, La., not to mention the City of New Orleans and neighboring communities.

Gov. Kirk Fordice early Tuesday morning had declared a state of emergency for Hancock County.

The ironic thing about all of this severe weather is the fact that we along the Mississippi Gulf Coast and the City of New Orleans are involved in a Multi State Hurricane Exercise.

Members of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Washington, D.C. and through the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency were on hand for the exercise.

On Wednesday morning the exercise was canceled because of a real emergency.

I know there are many washouts on county roads, as we saw several on our trips Tuesday and Wednesday and we were not able to travel many of the roads.

It will probably be sometime before all the washouts are repaired.

We can prepare for many things, but one thing is for sure, we cannot control the weather.

We can only do the best we can under the circumstances.

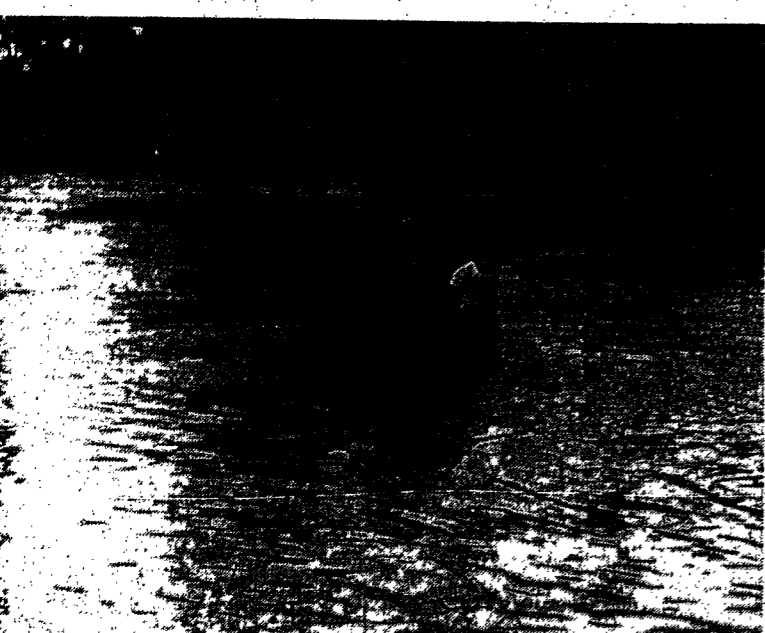

I am glad of the response of the blood donors for the special American Red Cross drawing held at Casino Magic on Tuesday for Steve Lady.

As some of you know, Lady was involved in a boating accident on Sunday and was in need of blood for operations.

Steve and his family own the Waveland Resort Inn and he has a lot of folks praying for his recovery.

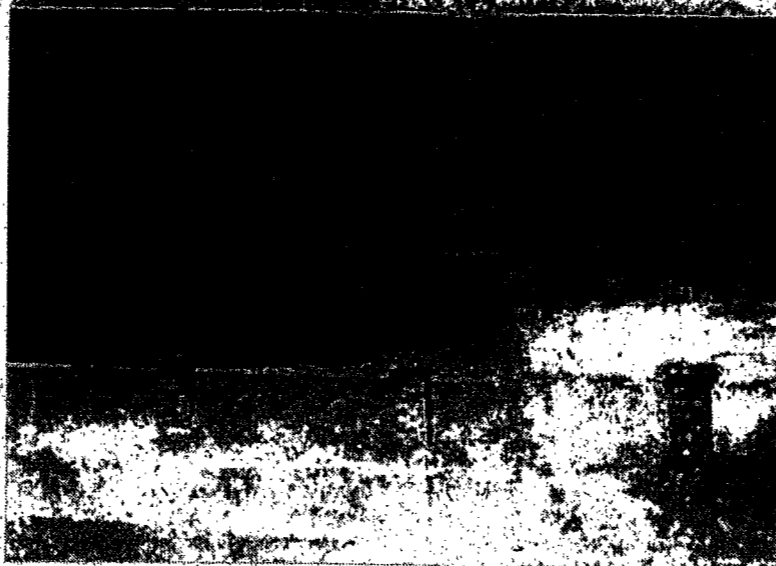

I wish Steve and his family the best during this time of crisis.

I would like to thank each and everyone personally for their contributions to the family during this crisis.

BMR to rescue

Beyond the flood

Guide for personal health and safety

The physical devastation that accompanies a flood is enormous. But as the flood waters recede, there may be more threats to personal health and safety.

Drink plenty of fluids, avoid caffeine, and do not wait to get thirsty. When possible, take a break, being careful not to get any more exhausted than you already may be.

WATER QUALITY

Listen for public announcements on the safety of the municipal water supply. Flooded, private water wells will need to be tested and disinfected after floodwaters recede. Questions about testing should be directed to local or state health departments.

Water that might be contaminated should be boiled. It is safe to drink water that is bottled, boiled, or treated.

Here are some general rules concerning your drinking water: If in doubt, contact your state or local health department, local water operator, or agriculture extension office. Remember:

- * bottled water should be obtained from known origins;
- * if origin is unknown, water should be boiled for at least 2-3 minutes and sometimes up to 10 minutes;
- * water may be treated with halogen tablets, such as hal-zone, or by mixing five drops (1/8 teaspoon) of unscented, ordinary household bleach per gallon of water. Mix the solution thoroughly, and let stand for about thirty minutes. However, this treatment will not kill parasitic organisms. Continue to drink boiled water until water can be tested; and
- * do not use contaminated water to make ice, brush your teeth, or wash dishes.

FOOD SAFETY

Do not eat any food that may have come into contact with flood water. Discard any food without a waterproof container if there is any chance that it has come into contact with flood water.

Undamaged, commercially canned foods can be saved if you remove the can labels, thoroughly wash the cans, and then disinfect them with a solution consisting of one cup of bleach in 5 gallons of water. Do not forget to re-label your cans with a marker.

Home canned food should be washed and disinfected in the same manner, but the food itself should also be boiled for 10 minutes before being consumed.

To ensure the health of infants, use only pre-prepared canned baby formula rather than powdered formulas prepared with treated water.

If your refrigerator or freezer has been without power for several hours, food should be discarded.

Thawed food can usually be eaten or refrozen if it is still "refrigerator cold" or if it still contains ice crystals. To be safe, remember, "When in doubt, throw it out."

Discard any food that has been at room temperature for two hours or more, and any food that has an unusual odor, color or texture.

SANITATION AND HYGIENE

One result of the flood may be a lapse in basic hygiene during the emergency period. It is critical for you to remember to practice basic hygiene. You must wash your hands with soap and water that has been boiled or disinfected:

- * before preparing or eating food;
- * after toilet use;
- * after participating in flood cleanup activities; and
- * after handling articles contaminated with flood water sewage.

Flood waters may contain fecal material from overflowing sewage systems, and agricultural and industrial byproducts. Although skin contact with flood water does not, by itself, pose a serious health risk, there is some risk of disease from eating or drinking anything contaminated with flood water.

If you have any open cuts or sores that will be exposed to flood water, keep them as clean as possible by washing well with soap to control infection. If a wound develops redness, swelling, or drainage, seek immediate medical attention.

Do not allow children to play in flood water areas, wash children's hands frequently (especially before meals), and do not allow children to play with flood water-contaminated toys that have not been disinfected. You can disinfect toys using a solution of one ounce of bleach (1/8 cup) in 2 gallons of water.

PRECAUTIONS WHEN RETURNING HOME

Electrical power and natural gas or propane tanks should be shut off to avoid fire, electrocution, or explosions. Try to return to your home during the daytime so that you do not have to use any lights. Use battery-powered flashlights and lanterns, rather than candles, gas lanterns, or torches.

If you smell gas or suspect a leak, turn off the main gas valve, open all windows, and leave the house immediately. Notify the gas company or the police or fire departments or State Fire Marshal's office, and do not turn on the lights or do anything that could cause a spark.

Do not return to the house until you are told it is safe to do so.

Your electrical system may also be damaged. If you see fraying ed wiring or sparks, or if there is an odor of something burning but no visible fire, you should immediately shut off the electrical system at the circuit breaker.

Avoid any downed power lines, particularly those in water. Avoid wading in standing water, which also may contain glass or metal fragments.

CLEANUP

Walls and hard-surfaced floors should be cleaned with soap and water and disinfected with a solution of 1/2 cup (4 ounces) of bleach to one gallon of water. You need to be particularly careful to thoroughly disinfect food contact surfaces (counter tops, pantry shelves, refrigerators, etc.) and areas where small children play.

Wash all linens and clothing in hot water, or dry clean them. For items that cannot be washed or dry cleaned, such as mattresses and upholstered furniture, air dry them in the sun and then spray them thoroughly with a disinfectant.

Steam clean all carpeting. If there has been a backflow of sewage into the house, wear rubber boots and waterproof gloves during cleanup.

Remove and discard absorbent household materials, such as wallcoverings, cloth, rugs, and sheetrock.

Neighborhood Watch

This Neighborhood Watch sign was not necessary in this neighborhood on Highway 43 Tuesday morning as water some five feet deep rushes past it. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

Airport water

The turn around at the Stennis Airport in Hancock County was underwater Wednesday morning following severe thunderstorms Tuesday night. Bill Stoval, airport director, indicated better drainage was needed at the facility. A Casino Magic charter flight Wednesday morning was not hampered by the water, as the runway was clear. 'Feline'enal dispute at Bay High

BY RICHARD MEEK

A feline dispute has erupted at Bay High School. And before it's settled, the Bay-Waveland School Board may de-claw the school's disgression to dissect animals.

At the center of the controversy is an advanced biology class that recently concluded dissection of cats. Thyla Rogers, president of the Humane Society, told the Echo last week that the practice was "teaching a poor lesson to students."

She said the students are taught "to be kind to animals and humans," and that it was also "illegal to force (a student) to dissect an animal if it was against their belief or religion."

Rogers also took the matter to the school board on Monday night. In a prepared, four-page letter which she read, Rogers said some students have told her "any dissection is abhorrent to them. Tears have been shed on the phone by some as they say how they are trapped in this situation."

"When animals are tortured and mutilated in occult religious ceremonies, we shrink in horror to think what the poor animal had to endure," she told the board members. "Does the skinning, dismembering and disemboweling of the same cat move us differently because it is done in a high school class under the cloak of academia?"

Bay-Waveland Superintendent Paul Tisdale, when contacted last week, said he had not heard a "compelling reason" to halt the practice.

"The students are expected to participate," Tisdale said. "In biology, you dissect animals and this happens to be a cat."

Bay High Principal Sandra Reed explained that a cat is used in the class because a cat's anatomy "resembles that of a human," and that human anatomy is part of the class.

She said the class is designed for those students interested in pursuing a career in medicine or biology. She said the students dissection was explained on the first day of class, and in a syllabus.

Reed added Advanced Biology is not required, and students who felt uncomfortable when learning of the dissection "could have elected to drop the course."

In her address to the board, Rogers added that "the act of dissection can be emotionally disturbing for some students and exposure to dissection can harden attitudes and foster disrespect for life."

She cited such schools as Stanford, Yale, Georgetown, LSU, Baylor and Texas A&M among others that have discontinued the use of animals in their medical schools and undergraduate courses.

However, Bay High senior Chris Boston countered Rogers' claim at the meeting. He told the board the dissection "was a great educational experience."

He said the class would not have been as educational "without having a hands-on opportunity" to study.

However, Rogers apparently found a sympathetic ear in board president Linda Penrose. Penrose flatly stated she does not "feel we should be dissecting cats in school."

"There are other animals we can dissect," she said.

Board member Richard Flowers called computer (dissection) models "excellent," but added that a student cannot "learn as much without dissection with hands-on application. That is why cadavers are used in medical school."

"We are not forcing the student to do this," he said. "They have an option to do this."

Penrose suggested banning the dissection of cats from the high schools. The biology class is finished with dissection for this year.

However, instead of instituting a ban on the felines, the board agreed to investigate the matter further.

Rogers closed by asking, "Are we throwing our ethics away along with the Lord's Prayer and the right to salute the flag? It is part of the degradation of America."

Flood

way 43, that he had never seen as much water in the area as he did Tuesday morning.

Mississippi State Troopers and Department of Transportation workers blocked Highway 43 on Tuesday morning to repair a section of washout under the roadbed. Other areas of the highway were closed because of water overflowing.

Highways, roads, and streets closed due to flooding on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings are too numerous to mention.

Bay St. Louis Postmaster Jimmy Moore reported his carriers were only able to deliver a portion of their routes because of water on the roads.

Moore said, "It took two hours to reach the Kiln Post Office with their mail and that trip usually takes 20 minutes. We were lucky we had someone who knew the backroads from Harrison County to reach Kiln, since Highway 603 was closed down."

Mississippi Governor Kirk Fordice declared a state of emergency for the coastal counties.

Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs was on the coast Wednesday to meet with news media and local school officials to announce details of the state's tuition assistance program for college students.

Briggs was briefed on the situation by state emergency management authorities.

Briggs said, "Gov. Fordice has activated the Mississippi National Guard and I will be here today to keep the governor advised in order to marshal all of the state's resources to try to relieve the conditions here."

Hancock County Supervisors at their meeting on Tuesday were upset that county schools were kept open that day.

They were concerned about the safety of the students in the outlying areas, traveling over shaky bridges and washed out roads.

All Bay St. Louis, Waveland and county schools, both public and private, were closed on Wednesday.

County Superintendent of Education Myrna Bourgeois on Wednesday said, "We had to sandbag the old section of Gulfview School to try and keep surface water from the roads coming into the buildings."

She indicated better drainage was needed near the school.

Kathy Fernandez, spokesman for Coast Electric Power Association, reported her company experienced several isolated outages during the severe thunderstorms.

Everything was up and running Wednesday afternoon with the exception of the flooded areas near the Jourdan River. Coast Electric serves the rural areas of the county.

Several parents of students at Bay High School were upset on Tuesday upon finding out their children were placed on a bus for a trip to the Saenger Theatre in Biloxi.

The bus got about halfway there and was forced to turn back because of weather conditions.

The enactment of a hurricane drill was postponed early Wednesday morning due to the severe weather in the area.

United States Congressman Gene Taylor contacted Boudin's office on Wednesday offering any assistance possible from his office.

Boudin indicated it was too early to access damages until the waters recede.

Boudin also said, "They (the county) would not need any assistance in clearing debris because the water was washing it right now out into the Gulf."

We are not going to have any cleanup problems."

The new Hancock County Dive & Rescue team was standing by and ready in case of need.

Boudin said they had two boats gassed up and ready to go.

The Supervisors on Tuesday declared an emergency situation following the governor's proclamation.

Boudin said that act allows him to waive the rules on purchases of emergency equipment, or supplies. His office could purchase needed supplies, etc. without taking formal bids.

Hancock County Road Superintendent Sam Cuevas' crews were kept busy Tuesday and Wednesday addressing the flooding roads and washouts.

Hancock County Board of Supervisor members could be seen about the county checking out the flooded areas on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The City of Bay St. Louis and Waveland had all forces out clearing drains, setting up necessary roadblocks, etc. throughout the crisis time.

Waveland Mayor John Mason was keeping a close eye on his city's woes during the thunderstorms.

Bay St. Louis Council President Charles Scianna joined public works director Ron Vanney in checking out that city Wednesday morning.

Buddy Eler, Mississippi Power spokesman, reported his company was very fortunate with the severe electrical storm which crossed the Gulf Coast Wednesday morning.

"Mississippi Power did not sustain any major damage to our facilities and the majority of our outages were scattered and very minor from Waveland all the way to Pascagoula," Eler said.

"We had a total of about 12,000 customers out along the entire coast and 7,199 was from a single outage in Biloxi which occurred about 6:48 p.m. Tuesday evening and lasted about one-half of an hour. The remainder was scattered," Eler

Boomtown Casino

Environmental Award

If you've driven down Bayview Avenue lately, toward the area where the shrimp boats dock, it's likely that you'll see the remarkable transformation that has occurred outside Boomtown Casino with the street improvements, lighting and landscaping.

It's this remarkable landscaping job, combining ancient live oaks, colorful flower beds with meandering brick parking areas, that won Boomtown Casino the 1995 Outstanding Environmental Award from the City of Biloxi.

According to Biloxi City Arborist Eric Nolan, Boomtown did an outstanding job of preserving existing trees while still managing to create a much-needed parking lot.

"The casino won this award because of the care and dedication that went into preserving an area of Biloxi that is undergoing significant change. By creating a parking area shaded by these magnificent live oaks draped with Spanish moss, Boomtown is keeping alive the spirit of days past and preserving our environment, too."

This environmental award is just one example of Boomtown's commitment to being a good neighbor and "giving back something" to the community around the casino.

Palace Casino

Championship Wrestling

After a series of popular televised boxing events, Palace Casino has gone into wrestling — and along with CIW Promotions and Championship International Wrestling, Palace Casino will bring a star-studded lineup to Point Cadet Plaza May 13.

Highlight of the event will be a North vs. South tag team match, with a newly formed Tag Team Trophy at stake.

"History states the South surrendered to the North on April 9, 1865," says J. J. Bowers of CIW Promotions. "Now, 130 years and one month later, the South may rise again."

The South Tag Team features Billy Joe Eaton (WWF) of Charleston, S.C., weighing in at 227 pounds, and Quick Silver (WWF), of Savanna, Ga., weighing in at 225. The Northern team features T-Rex (WWF, WCW), the former heavyweight champion strongman from Jurasic, Montana, weighing in at 260 pounds, and Lightning Rod (WWF, WCW) from Chicago, Ill., weighing in at 252. All four have strong following and should provide plenty of excitement.

In addition to the North vs. South Tag Team match, the event will include a World Heavy Weight Title Match pitting The Bounty Hunter from Tombstone, Ariz. against Bobo Brazil Jr. from Benton Harbor, Mich. as the Bounty Hunter fights to hold his title.

Two other matches will feature the flash-and-dash moves of Ronnie "Diceman" Vegas (WWF, WCW) against Dirty White Boy, recently returned from Japan, and The Shadow Nija of Hiroshima, Japan against Electric Eric Freedom of Woodstock, Ga.

In the Women's Championship International spotlight will be a special match between Regina Hale and Candy Devine, both of Nashville. A one-time holder of the Women's Championship Belt, Hale will go head-to-head with current North American title holder Devine in an attempt to regain her title.

Tickets are on sale at Palace Casino's Crown Jewel Club. Advance admission is $5 for children, $8 general and $10 "action" seating. "Action" seating will be in the first three rows around the ring.

RESOLUTION
It was moved by Supervisor Wilmer Seymour, seconded by Supervisor Alton A. Keller, that the captioned Resolution pursuant to Senate Bill 3220 of the 1995 regular session of the Legislature and Section 19-3-40 of the Mississippi Code of 1972, be and it is hereby adopted, as follows, to-wit:

WHEREAS, it has been determined that there has been an increase of biting cases by dogs running loose and more specifically by attacking children who, due to their tender age, are unable to distinguish between a domesticated animal and an animal which will attack and injure children. Therefore,

BE IT RESOLVED, that
SECTION 1: It shall be unlawful for any person to own, keep or permit a dog or cat South of Interstate 10 without obtaining for such dog or cat a dog tag and evidence of inoculation.

SECTION 2: It shall be unlawful for any person to maliciously or wantonly remove or cause to be removed directly or indirectly any license tag from the dog or cat of another person, or to counterfeit or mutilate such tags.

SECTION 3: Any person owning or harboring any dog or cat in the area set out above shall put on the neck of such dog or cat a collar to which a metal tag furnished by the Veterinarian inoculating such dog or cat shall be attached with a number marked or engraved thereon.

SECTION 4: It shall be the duty of the Animal Warden, Policeman, or other authorized person to take up any dog or cat which may be seen running at large in the area set out above and confine such dog or cat in some suitable place for five (5) days thereafter, and if not called for by the owner thereof within the above time, then to destroy such dog or cat in a humane manner.

SECTION 5: The Animal Warden and poundkeeper shall impound all dogs and cats running at large in the area set out above. Said Animal Warden shall immediately notify the owner, if he can be found by reasonable diligence, of such impoundment and that such dog or cat can be obtained every two (72) hours after receipt of such notice by paying the license fee as provided in Section 2 plus an impounding fee of Six Dollars ($6.00) per day of impoundment.

SECTION 6: It shall be unlawful for any person owning, keeping, possessing, harboring or maintaining dogs or cats to permit the said animal to be at large upon the streets, sidewalks, alleys, or public property, unless such dog or cat is restrained by leash, chain, rope or cord of not more than eight feet in length and of sufficient strength to control the action of such animal.

SECTION 7: Hunting dogs with collars which may be found running at large shall be subjected to seizure by the Animal Warden, however, they will be taken to the animal shelter but there will be no penalty or fine assessed against the owner and the only charge will be the necessary charge for the upkeep of the animal while in the center. It is understood that the shelter will notify the owner of said dog with seventy-two (72) hours of the dog's location.

SECTION 8: Each day on which this ordinance is violated shall constitute a separate offense and anyone convicted of a violation of said ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) nor more than one day in jail for each offense or both.

By order of the Board of Supervisors this the 9th day of May, 1995 this Resolution shall be published in the Sea Coast Echo on two successive Thursdays, being May 11 and May 18, and said resolution and Ordinance will become effective thirty (30) days from date of adoption of said resolution.

PRCC will hold 85th graduation

Pearl River Community College will hold its 85th commencement exercises Friday, May 12 in the M. R. White Coliseum on the main campus in Poplarville.

The special day begins at 1 p.m. with the Associate Degree Nursing Pinning Ceremony, followed by the Academic Graduation at 3 p.m. and the Vocational-Technical graduation at 5:30 p.m.

"It's about time," Juan Bechum, a sophomore from Hattiesburg, said with a huge grin.

For Bechum and the hundreds of other men and women who will march across the state in White Coliseum, the ceremony marks the culmination of a dream, or the pivoting point toward a higher degree.

"Consider that a student who receives an associate degree has made significant progress in their career," said Dr. John Grant, chair of PRCC's mathematics and physics department. "For some it's the end and for some it's a step toward a bachelor's degree or even more. My own (degree) is on the wall, and I'm proud of it. I hope the graduates this year will be proud as well. We want it to be memorable for all of them."

The graduates of the Associate Degree Nursing Department chose Whitney Houston's hit, "One Moment in Time," as their theme song for the Pinning Ceremony.

State Games adds girls fast-pitch softball

The State Games of Mississippi has expanded its 1995 roster of "fun and games." In Meridian June 23-25, girls fast-pitch softball will debut as an exhibition event one year before it debuts at the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta.

As part of the weekend softball competition, eight high school-age teams from around the state will present and demonstrate the fast-pitch game. The format for the fast-pitch exhibition will be a round robin tournament from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, June 23 at the Sammie Davidson Complex. Top four teams from Friday's competition will then play Saturday for gold, silver and bronze medals.

At this time slow-pitch softball athletes and fans will take a break from competition so that they can witness the up and coming fast-pitch style.

Fast-pitch softball is combination play of both baseball and slow-pitch softball. Pitching, in softball, is underhand only, but is very swift in the fast-pitch game. In slow-pitch the ball is thrown more gently and must have an arched trajectory. The nine-player team is the rule for fast-pitch softball, but the ten-player team is still used in slow-pitch.

Softball has become increasingly popular among women, particularly at the youth and collegiate levels. More than 600 NCAA member institutions sponsor women's softball teams, and national championship tournaments for women are held for three collegiate divisions.

Recently, Mississippi universities instituted fast-pitch softball as a varsity sport providing scholarships. Some high schools in the state have also added fast-pitch to its athletic lineup.

The State Games slow-pitch softball competition is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, June 24-25. Slow-pitch divisions will include adult coed and girls 18 and under, 16 and under, 14 and under, 12 and under and 10 and under.

Girls division games will be played at Sammie Davidson Complex and Northeast Park June 24 while coed softball is played June 24-25 at Sammie Davidson Complex. All division formats will consist of a double elimination tournament.

This year, over 3,700 Mississippi athletes are expected to converge on Meridian to compete in the State Games. As the state's largest amateur sport festival for all ages and all skill levels, the games will provide an exciting challenge for aspiring athletes who can experience the thrills of formal competition.

Getting ready for state

The U-10 Bay Bombers and U-14 MDB, Ltd. held a combined practice as the two teams made final preparations for the state soccer tournament scheduled this weekend in Clinton. The older MDB players, many of whom were members of the under-12 state championship team two years ago, worked with their younger 'brothers' to sharpen their footwork and passing skills and develop new techniques. MDB, coached by Art Rieben, and the Bombers, coached by Andy Kivlan, qualified for the state tournament by placing first and second respectively in the recent Southern District Soccer Tournament. 1995 Kids Count Data Book reports overall improvement

The 1994 Kids Count Data Book released recently shows improvements in Mississippi's children in five areas. Favorable indicators include a 28 percent decrease in the percentage of teens ages 16-19 who are high school dropouts.

This measure along with improvements in infant mortality, the child death rate, the percentage of children living in poverty and the percentage of teens not attending school and not working moves Mississippi's overall ranking among the 50 states and Washington, D.C. from 50th in 1994 to 49th in 1995.

SSC student honored

The United States Achievement Academy announced Joseph Kuhner has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or higher grade point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA.

Kuhner, who attends St. Stanislaus, was nominated for this national award by Andrew Kivlan.

Kuhner will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, winners of the All-American Scholars Award should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the United States Achievement Academy.

Kuhner is the son of Georgia Byrne Kuhner and Robert Kuhner of New Orleans.

Grandmother is Mrs. Julien K. Byrne of Pass Christian.

worsening for children in five areas. In keeping with national trends, juvenile violent crime jumped, but more dramatically in Mississippi, increased 109 percent compared to a 58 percent increase for the nation.

The state's teen violent death rate increased by 38 percent; the number of births to unmarried teens increased by 25 percent; and the percentage of low birth-weight babies increased by 12 percent. The percentage of families with children headed by a single parent increased 18 percent.

In other measures new to the 1995 Data Book, Mississippi ranked 50th in the number of children living in households with no adult male present. Almost one in four — 23.4 percent — of Mississippi's children live in female-headed households.

Mississippi also ranked 50th in the percentage of all men ages 25 to 34 earning less than the poverty level. More than two-fifths — 41.9 percent — of this age group earn annual incomes less than $14,763, the poverty level for a family of four.

"There are no quick fixes for the situations affecting many of Mississippi's children's lives," says Jane Boykin, president of the Mississippi Forum on Children and Families and director of the state-level Kids Count project, Kids Count Mississippi.

"Change takes time. We are hopeful that the increased graduation rate is a predictor of increased earnings for Mississippians in the future. As the level of education is raised, the level of pay should increase for both fathers and mothers. While parents are working to support their families, their children should have access to quality child care and after-school programs at an affordable price."

Kids Count, a project of the Annie E. Casey Foundation, is a national and state-by-state effort to track the status of children in the United States.

Kids Count Mississippi is one of 50 state-level Kids Count projects that provide a more detailed county- and community-level picture of the condition of children. Kids Count Mississippi will release its second state data book in the fall.

PRCC's Powell signs with LSU

The nation's top women's junior college basketball player signed with Louisiana State University on the Pearl River Community College campus.

PRCC's Elaine Powell, the 5-9 guard from Monroe, La., who led the nation two years straight in scoring, signed a scholarship to play for coach Sue Gunter and the Lady Tigers.

"I narrowed my choices between Texas Tech and LSU," said Powell. "It was a hard decision because I like both of the schools, but I chose LSU to stay closer to home and so that my friends and family could continue to see me play."

To Powell's surprise, PRCC Lady Wildcat Coach Polly Kirkland presented her with a LSU jersey, complete with Powell's name and her PRCC number 10.

Powell, 19, has been one of the most sought after women's community college players in the country. Other colleges who recruited Powell included Auburn, Western Kentucky, Stephen F. Austin, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi State, Ole Miss, University of Southern Mississippi and several others.

She is the premier women's athlete at PRCC and has garnered more awards and honors than any other female athlete in the college's history. She averaged 31.6 points a game this year as the PRCC Lady Wildcats captured the regular season South Division championship and the Region 23 crown. The 1995 Lady Wildcats is the first PRCC athletic team to advance to a national tournament.

Be safe, ski smart

Tips for safe water skiing

Nearly 17 million Americans water ski each year. Thankfully, very few are ever seriously injured in a water-skiing related accident during a season, and the death rate from such accidents is ten times less than the injury rate.

Water skiing is safe when skiers and boat drivers know and use common sense rules.

Personal Equipment

A moderate ability to swim is advisable for water skier, but swimming ability is no substitute for a well-fitting Personal Flotation Device (PFD). Wearing a PFD is essential when water skiing, even for expert swimmers, and is required by law in most states.

The PFD should be Type III, approved by the U.S. Coast Guard and designated as a ski vest. It should fit snugly. If it is too loose, in a fall it could slide up on the skier and pin his or her arms in a useless position, or it could be forced completely off by the pressure of the water.

Signals Are Important

Water skiing is a cooperative venture between skier, observer and boat driver. The skier and driver should agree in advance on the general path of the boat. A skier who inadvertently turns in the same direction that the boat driver is about to maneuver the boat will get line slack that could result in a fall or entanglement of the line.

Safe Boating Week

National Safe Boating Week will be observed May 20-26, and the U.S. Coast Guard, USCG Auxiliary and the U.S. Power Squadron will begin the festivities by sponsoring an open house at the U.S. Coast Guard Station Gulfport on May 20 from 9-5 p.m.

Participating will be the U.S. Coast Guard with tours aboard some of their boats, fire departments with trucks and fire extinguisher demonstrations, police department safety units, ambulance service vehicles, water divers and search dogs, civil defense units and many others.

One of the central features will be the demonstration on proper type, wear, use and care of life jackets. "Life jackets save lives, and they won't work if you don't wear them" is the theme of this year's National Safe Boating Week campaign.

Another feature of the open house will be demonstrations by the fire department of fire extinguishers.

The Coast Guard, Coast Guard Auxiliary and Power Squadron are nonprofit organizations that have joined with local fire and safety organizations to sponsor this event.

Alzheimer Support Group

The Bay St. Louis Alzheimer Support Group will meet at the Main Street Methodist Church on final Thursdays of the month at 2 p.m. The group formerly met at 6 p.m.

The group is affiliated with the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association with over 200 chapters nationwide.

If the skier moves in a direction opposite to that of an unanticipated boat turn, a crack-the-whip reaction could follow, creating the potential for a high-speed spill.

Some signals in preparation for takeoff are vocal. When the skier is comfortable in the water with skis in position, he informs the driver that he is ready by shouting, "In gear!"

The boat then moves slowly forward to take up slack in the line. When the line becomes taut, the skier shouts, "Hit it!", which is the signal for the driver to open the throttle for takeoff.

Once on plane, the skier signals with one hand. A thumb-down motion requests slower speed, while a thumb-up movement signals the driver for more speed.

An acceptable alternate to these signals is a palm-down, or palm-up motion. When the speed is all right, the skier gives the familiar thumb and forefinger "OK" sign.

When the skier desires to turn, he makes a curving motion with palm horizontal, either the right or left depending upon the desired direction change.

When the skier wishes to stop, he can make the palm up, fingers extended, policeman-type signal, or he can draw a finger across his throat to signal the driver to cut the throttle. Of course, if he wishes to stop in a hurry, the skier can just release the handle.

When You Fall

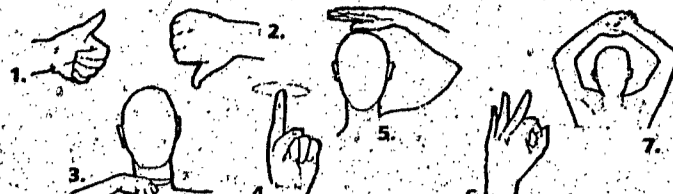

Once a skier is down, one of the most important signals is to let the driver know immediately that the skier is all right. This is done by the simple gesture of clapping both hands over the head. In the absence of this signal, the driver can only assume the skier is injured and he must come about immediately to help.

Another important signal on the part of the skier is to hold up a ski so his position will be more visible to his own driver and operators of other boats in the vicinity. This signal is especially important in areas where other boats and skiers are in action.

Choosing Where To Ski

The size of the area needed for water skiing safely will vary

Water Skier Hand Signals

1. Speed up the boat: Thumb up.
2. Slow down the boat: Thumb down.
3. Cut Motor/Stop (also used by driver to observe skier's position over neck).
4. Turn the boat (also used by driver): Circle motion with arms over head then point in desired direction.
5. Return to Dock: Pat on the head.
6. Speed and boat path OK or signals under about OK signal with hand.
7. Skier OK after falling: Hands clasped over head.

with the configuration of the body of water. However, some guidelines apply under most conditions.

Each boat using a waterway for skiing should operate in a corridor about 200 feet wide, giving a safety area of 100 feet on either side of the boat. A corridor length of 2,000 to 3,000 feet is desirable.

If a waterway is heavily used by skiers, a traffic pattern might be established. Such patterns usually are counter-clockwise. The skier and driver should determine in advance whether a pattern has been established and, if so, strictly adhere to it.

Water skiing should never be attempted (and usually illegal) in swimming areas, low-speed mooring lanes and marina channels. Boats towing skiers should give a wide berth to fishermen, either in boats or on shore, and to slow-moving craft such as canoes and sailboats.

The Boat Driver

The boat driver is responsible for keeping the skier away from dangerous areas as well as giving him a good ride. Keep the boat a safe distance from the shore, docks and other objects in the water.

Be on the lookout for other boats about to enter the ski area. If this happens, shut down the boat and wait for the area to clear. The driver must be alert for downed skiers or stopped boats in his path.

Before turning the boat, look to each side and behind to make sure there are no overtaking boats and that the turn will not endanger the skier.

Always pull novice skiers slowly, and novice boat drivers should never pull any skier fast. Speed isn't essential to enjoyable water skiing.

Remember that the skier at the end of the towrope is an extension of the boat, and the driver must continually be aware of the skier's presence and safety.

Always approach a down skier so he is on the driver's side of the boat and in full view of the driver. Turn off the engine when taking a skier aboard from the water. There are no exceptions to this rule.

Stay in Control

Safe and fun skiing requires a driver and skier to make good judgments. The effects of sun, wind, waves and vibration can impair your judgment. Don't stay on the water too long.

Drinking beverages containing alcohol, taking prescription and over-the-counter medications, or use of illegal drugs can contribute to impaired judgment.

Being on the water, and fatigued, can increase the effects beyond your normal tolerance. Never drive or ski when your judgment is impaired. Operating a boat while intoxicated is illegal and dangerous.

Please ski smart and safe. If you choose to drink, save your party for back at the dock or wait until you've safely driven home.

Gulf Island National Seashore May schedule

Each Sunday afternoon in May, Gulf Islands National Seashore will present a series of ranger programs highlighting the creatures, culture and recreational opportunities found on the Gulf Coast.

Topics include alligators, wolves and the mysteries of the salt marsh. These free programs can be seen at the Davis Bayou Visitor Center in Ocean Springs.

On Sunday, May 14, peer into the world of Alligator mississippiensis. Known more commonly as the American alligator, find out if these ancient reptiles really do hibernate in winter. Can you predict the sex of baby alligators before the eggs hatch? Discover these answers and more during this one-hour ranger slide program at 2 p.m. in the Davis Bayou Visitor Center.

On Sunday, May 21, meet at 2 p.m. at the Davis Bayou Visitor Center for Marsh Walk. Explore with the park ranger as we discover the plants, animals and human history connected to a Mississippi salt marsh. Enjoy this popular, hour-long stroll on the boardwalks and sidewalks along Davis and Stark bays.

On Sunday, May 28, we'll look back at the history of Red Wolves on Horn Island. Beginning at 2 p.m. in the Visitor Center Auditorium, 'Wolves' includes a short slide program about the Horn Island Wolves. This will be followed by the video, 'Frontrunner', on the wolf introduction program in the southeastern United States.

The entrance to the Davis Bayou campground and the William M. Colmer Visitor Center can be found off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Springs. For information, call (601) 875-9057.

Head signs athletic scholarship at PRCC

Hancock High School senior Chastity Head signed a basketball scholarship with Pearl River Community College for the 1995-96 season. Head, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Head of Pass Christian, averaged 17.9 points, 4 rebounds, 2.4 assists, and 3.1 steals per game. She broke the school record for three-point goals by making 72 of her 151 shots. Head was named All-District, Offensive Player of the Year for District 8 4A, All-Tournament Pearl River, La., All-Gulf Coast Team and Pearl River/Hancock All-Area. Pictured are, seated from left, Gayle Head, Chastity Head and Elsie Head; standing, HHS Coach Sandy Albright and PRCC Coach Polly Kirkland.

For overworked families, some ways to avoid stress

With Mother's Day just around the corner, many families may ask, "Who's got time to celebrate, anyway?"

Time pressures on two-career families can add stress to already demanding lives, say two Mississippi State University professors. But there are ways to approach the career crunch so that working mothers can avoid being overburdened and families can enjoy time together.

Failing to balance time between work and family can sometimes leave the family feeling unbalanced, says Barbara Spencer, a management professor who has studied work-family conflicts.

"Spouses may begin to feel that their expectations have been left unfulfilled and neglected. Children may think that the grown-ups around them are apathetic to their world," she said.

"Lack of time is becoming more and more pervasive," Spencer observed. "People are working harder and harder and defining themselves by their jobs. The nature of our work is changing, and the time we devote to it is increasing."

The problem becomes even more stressful for mothers who continue to be responsible for all housework, she noted. "You have to renegotiate the roles of husbands and wives, and that can be stressful."

Home economics professor Jan Cooper-Taylor agrees that making decisions about how to spend time may be difficult. The first step is deciding what is important, she advises. "Both men and women have to look at their job and decide what it means to them and how much they can give up," says Taylor.

While no two families are alike, Spencer and Taylor have some broad suggestions for managing time in difficult circumstances:

- Parents should discuss their responsibilities. They should work out a schedule that involves activities with their children. Ask the entire family to help plan.

- Decide which activities you can give up. Children, as well as parents, should learn they can't do everything.

- Know your family's interests. Try to find activities you can enjoy together.

- Know yourself. "There is a lot of pressure to climb the corporate ladder, but you can be satisfied by knowing yourself and what's important to you, even if you don't reach the top," Taylor said.

Birding field day planned for May 21

To celebrate International Migratory Bird Day, a birding field day is planned for May 21 from noon-4 p.m. at the Pearl River Waterfowl Observation Tower on Hwy. 43 adjacent to Barnett Reservoir.

In keeping with this year's theme, "Sharing A Passion for Birds," local bird-watchers and naturalists will set up spotting scopes for viewing birds, answer questions about wildflower identification and assist with viewing nesting herons and egrets in a nearby rookery.

Neotropical migratory bird posters will be given to those joining the Jackson Audubon Society, Mississippi Ornithological Society or Mississippi Museum of Natural Science Foundation.

OLA student wins district contest

Lawren Cowand, seventh grade student at Our Lady Academy, has been chosen as a district winner in the RespecTeen "Speak for Yourself" letter-writing contest. She received a $50 savings bond and a certificate.

Cowand's letter was chosen from more than 13,000 letters from seventh- and eighth-graders across the nation and was judged the most outstanding from our congressional district.

Cowand is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cowand of Bay St. Louis.

Redditt is Mississippi State grad

Richard Whitney Redditt Jr. of Bay St. Louis is among more than 2,500 Mississippi State University students who are candidates for degrees at the conclusion of the 1995 spring semester.

Redditt graduates from the College of Arts and Sciences with a bachelor of arts degree.

EVERY ROSE HAS IT'S THORN:

True love only comes once in a lifetime. One should cherish it, embrace it, protect and defend it. For it is more precious than gold, and more fragile than a butterfly. True love never takes, it only gives. Pride is it's worst enemy, truth and commitment it's best friends. True love gives one the power to dream; and to forgive. If only your soul were an open window, like rays of sunshine all the true love within me would pour through into your heart, and looking in I would see our future together, with the past forgotten. Only you will read this and know for certain it is for you. I love you more. Come to me my princess, my music cries. There's a place, far far away
